I thank the reader for taking such a great interest in our article. Our main objective was to report the pathologic findings of localised AA amyloidosis at a very rare site, i.e. the ureter. In addition, we also reported the interesting and unique finding of spheroids of amyloid. The emphasis, however, was not on a detailed clinical workup of the patient. Moreover, for a detailed clinical workup of such a rare diagnosis, multiple aetiologies should be kept in mind, relevant to the geographic location of the patient.

Yours sincerely,
